

ABSTRACT

[00120] The invention relates to a set for introducing a plastic surgery implant into patient body comprising a plastic surgery implant to be implanted into a patient body, 5 said implant is embodied in such a way that it is deformable, thereby enabling it to change the shape thereof from a shape used for introduction into the body into a functional shape inside said body, a case which envelops said implant in the introducing shape thereof and is provided with an opening unit activateable by a positive action, thereby enabling it to change the closed shape thereof when it confines the implant in the 10 introducing shape into an open shaped when it makes it possible to shape said implant in to the functional shape thereof.

::ODMA\PCDOCS\ATL\977361\1